Friday 14th June

Dear Parents and Carers,

Well, hasn't the weather been awful this week! Luckily it seems to be improving so we hope for a sunnier weekend.

Thank you to everyone who completed the parent voice survey, this is now closed. We are looking at all of the responses and will send out a letter with the changes we plan before the summer. As I looked through the answers I thought that a lot has changed since the Covid pandemic and there are lots of things which used to happen which have fallen by the wayside. As I have only been here since September, I would love to hear of any events which used to happen and which you now miss. If you can think of anything do email head@lighthousefederation.norfolk.uk

Have a lovely weekend,

Lewatts

This week in class...

Ash Class - We have been covering lots of art this week in Ash class, inspired by our class reader, 'Luna Loves Art' by Joseph Coelho. We have learned about art and artists including Henri Matisse, Piet Mondrian, Henri Rousseau, Vincent Van Gogh, Andy Warhol and Henry Moore. We have created a lot of our own artwork inspired by the art and artists we have learned about. We have used adjectives to describe the artwork we have seen and created ourselves and have focused on using capital letters and full stops in our writing. In maths, we have continued to explore sharing and grouping and have revisited doubles.

Beech Class - In Beech class this week we have started a new DT unit on bridges. We looked at different types of bridges and then explored how to build a bridge across a wider span. We really enjoyed Reverend Peter's collective worship on prayer.

Elm Class - Elm class are continuing to revisit their Plants including Trees topic. Today we explored a cross section of a tree trunk and tried to work out the age of trees. We learnt that the size of each ring depends upon the climate. Then we used our creativity to design our own tree trunks, using various shapes and numbers of rings.

Oak Class - In Oak this week have really enjoyed beginning our new class reader, Five Children and It by E Nesbit. It is really different from all of the other books we have read and some of the language is unfamiliar because of the time it was written. We are curious about what will happen next. In writing we are learning to write play scripts and have had a go performing an extract from a play. Next, we will decide on what happens in scene III? What are the peasants creating for the Emperor's birthday? Art has been particularly interesting as we think about the learning we have done this year and combine some of the skills to create a finished piece.
